

YANKEE FLIERS CONGRATULATED BY PRESIDENT

First Stop of Airmen On Westward Trip Will Be at Dayton

Aviators Took More Than Five Months to Return to America

Ice Tickle Harbor, Labrador, Sept. 2.—The United States' round the world fliers hopped off today on the next leg of their journey which will carry them nearer the States and their final destination.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The American around-the-world fliers who landed Sunday in Labrador after a 572 mile jump across the North Atlantic from Greenland, have received a message of congratulation from President Coolidge.

The message was handed to Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, commander of the flight. It read: "Your return to North American soil following circumnavigation of the earth by air, is an inspiration to the whole world. Your countrymen are proud of you. Your branch of the service realizes the honor you have won for it. My congratulations and heartiest good wishes go to you."

Little difficulty is anticipated in the remainder of the fliers' jaunt back to Santa Monica, Calif. which they left last March on their westward journey around the world. After a stop in Nova Scotia the aviators will hop off for Boston, thence down the Atlantic coast to Washington, where the journey westward will begin. The first stop on the westward flight will be at Dayton, Ohio.

The airmen flew from Igivut, Greenland, to the lonely harbor on the Labrador coast in six hours and 49 minutes, making the journey over the dangerous air current of Davis Strait without mishap. It was one of the most dangerous legs of the voyage and there was great relief as the two big planes, piloted by Lieutenants Eric Nelson and Lowell Smith, settled on the water near the two buoys which had been prepared for them in Ice Tickle harbor.

It was just five months and 14 days from the date of their departure from Santa Monica when the airmen reached North America again. Four American army pilots took off from Santa Monica, Cal., last March 17. Major Frederick L. Martin, Lieutenants Leigh Wade, Eric Nelson and Lowell Smith each commanded a plane at the start.

The flight took the airmen up the Pacific coast to Alaska, where Major Martin wrecked his plane and was forced out. Wade, Nelson and Smith continued across the Pacific to Japan, down the China sea to India, across the deserts of Arabia and the Holy Land to Europe. From Paris the three flew across the English channel into the northland across England and Scotland to the Orkney islands. Shortly after the take-off to Iceland, Wade's plane fell in the icy seas. An attempt to salvage it failed. He and his mechanic were picked up and plan to rejoin Nelson and Smith at Ice Tickle inlet, Labrador, for the remainder of the trip. Wade gets a new plane.

HOOVER SEEKS TO REDUCE ACCIDENTS

Washington, Sept. 2.—The national conference on street and highway safety, working under the direction of Secretary of Commerce Hoover, has sent out questionnaires to several hundred communities in an effort to get statistics that will serve as a guide toward reduction of auto accidents. In most cases, police departments will gather the information.

The reports will show the age, color, sex and business of violators, whether they can read traffic signs in English, whether they own real estate or other property and whether they carry insurance on their machines. Another line of questions will ask how much driving experience the violator has had, whether he drives his own machine and whether it was bought new or second-hand, together with its age. The conference will attempt to analyze the reports and draw therefrom definite recommendations for remedial measures.

STOCK OF DOLLINGS BRANCH WILL PAY

Columbus, O., Sept. 2.—In a report to stockholders, Attorney Freeman T. Eagleson, Columbus, receiver for the Phoenix Portland Cement Company, a dollings subsidiary, today announced that the cement company's preferred stock "should pay at least 4 per cent in 1925 and will be on approximately 6 per cent basis by 1926."

Eagleson said the stock now is worth the major part of the amount paid for it by present stockholders. Disbursements, he said, aggregated $123,429.36, the cash balance on hand totaling $16,576.02.

ABOLITION OF RAIL LABOR BOARD IS NOW FAVORED BY DAVIS

Nominee for "More Flexible Machinery" He Says in Speech

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 2.—In his Labor day address here John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for president, favored abolition of the railroad labor board in its present form. As a substitute he said he would set up "more flexible machinery under government direction" for the handling of railroad labor disputes.

Mr. Davis, addressing members of the Ohio Valley Trades and Labor assembly, declared that because of the widespread effect industrial disputes have upon commerce and industry, it is the duty of the government to lend its aid and encouragement in every possible way to their settlement. He expressed the view that in setting up machinery through which there could be "fair and calm discussion" of the subjects at issue with "thoroughgoing publicity," there were two fundamentals, first that the boards be composed of representatives of the employers and of the particular crafts concerned (this would leave out public representation such as there now is on the railroad labor board), and second, that such boards, instead of being fixed in their positions, should be filled by appointments made from time to time as the controversies arise.

The speaker added that whether legal machinery exists to compel the submission of labor disputes to such a board or whether its decisions could be enforced were of minor importance if the board itself enjoyed the confidence of the parties to the dispute, and if it realized that its chief function was to encourage a spirit of co-operation and friendship between employer and employee.

Mr. Davis declared himself in favor of the child labor amendment, against the proposed federal department of education, against proposals to curb the power of the court to protect the weak against unwise and unjust laws, and against the use of injunction in labor disputes.

In conclusion he urged the laboring men and women of America to lead their countrymen in a movement to have "America take her rightful place in the councils of humanity" and to see "that she becomes the first among the nations in the service of mankind."

TO DISCUSS MERGER OF CONFERENCES

Ada, O., Sept. 2.—Four hundred ministers and 1,000 lay delegates are attending the West Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which opened here today. Most of the delegates are quartered in Ada homes.

Memorial services will be held tomorrow morning. In the afternoon the annual meeting of the Preachers' Relief society and of the Retired Ministers' association will be held. Thursday's sessions will be a discussion of the merger of the West Ohio and Ohio conferences and an address by Bishop Theodore S. Henderson, presiding bishop of the Cincinnati area. Friday will be given over to the laymen's conference. Saturday the anniversary of the Women's Foreign and Women's Home Missionary Societies will be celebrated. Saturday night a grand temperance rally will be held.

CITY IS TENSE WHILE RUMORS CIRCULATED

Reports Prove Unfounded—Ministers Protest Move
Of Troops.

Citizens Go About Work
Heavily Armed—Hated Manifest

Herrin, Ill., Sept. 2.—Despite protests of the Williamson County ministers' association, that, left to itself the bitter hatred between alleged klan and anti-klan forces here would immediately flare up again into further killings, the first contingents of state militia ordered here following the slaying of six men Saturday entered today. The movement of troops from the city will be gradual. Adjutant General Carlos E. Black has announced, and will not be completed until after the inquests into the deaths of Saturday's victims tomorrow.

General Black ordered the withdrawal of troops late yesterday after an inspection tour through the county. He reported all quiet in spite of wild rumors of outbreaks here and there.

It is expected that a detail of troops will be assigned today to the preliminary hearing of Dr. J. T. Black, head of the Herrin hospital, and Claude Craig, his chauffeur, who were arrested on a general murder charge in connection with Saturday's outbreak. Large numbers of persons representing each faction in the Williamson County feud, are expected to attend the hearing, but neither the sheriff's forces nor General Black anticipated trouble.

The majority arrested on the murder charge have waived preliminary hearing and their cases will go directly to the grand jury which will be empaneled in about three weeks.

Today, as far as outward appearances showed, Herrin was no different from any other Illinois city. By daybreak, men were hurrying along the streets to their day's work. Underneath, however, there was a current of tenseness and rumor was busy supplying details which the facts failed to provide. A raid was made on four churches and guns and ammunition were found in the basements; a man was hung and his body left somewhere between Marion and Herrin.

Leading members of the law enforcement league were turning their homes into armed citadels, a body of armed men in an automobile fired upon from ambush; the Ku Klux Klan was holding a secret meeting and preparing for direct action—all this and more happened, according to whispered gossip, but investigation proved it all untrue.

General Black's declaration that "all is quiet" in Williamson County undoubtedly was borne out in fact today but—and around that "but"—residents feel, revolves the shadow of further outbreaks.

It is virtuously the unanimous opinion of all observers, that as long as conditions remain what they are, Herrin and Williamson County the future history of the feud will contain but a crimson repetition of the past. The intense animosity and hatred openly displayed between the opposing factions can be expressed in no other word. Neither side will concede the other a thing.

General Black frankly admits he can see no answer to the problem.

"We cannot station troops here permanently," he said today, "nor can one thing be going to be true—rush troops here every time a trouble, for if we did, we would have them here every few days."

In the meantime Herrin waits, fears, hopes, and guns are conspicuously a part of their daily apparel.

Gutzon Borglum, Carver of Confederate Memorial, Plans Huge Monument to Union

Stamford, Conn., Sept. 2.—Gutzon Borglum, famous sculptor, now engaged in carving the proud record of the Confederacy on Stone Mountain in Georgia, is planning an even more stupendous and colossal undertaking commemorating the idea of the Union, it was learned today.

Sitting in his picturesque studio on the Old Wire Mill road five miles from here, Borglum said his plans called for the most gigantic enterprise in sculpturing ever conceived but said that as they were not yet complete he could not give the exact location or prospectus of the Herculean task of creating a national memorial in sculpture.

It would be carved, he said, in proximity to the center of the United States. Several states have been surveying their territory for several months attempting to find a mountain of granite that would meet the great sculptor's requirements for chiseling the story of the struggles of the United States in their infancy and one state has just reported, he said, that it had discovered "just the place."

Borglum is probably the busiest his duty of supervising the task of great art in the world and stopped making the last models for the great war memorial at Newark, N. J., to explain his art. The Newark memorial providing a fitting text for his sub-

CONFESS CHOKING WOMAN TO DEATH

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Lucille Marshall, with her companion, Anna Valanis, confessed choking Mrs. Beattie Gaensslen to death in her apartment with a telephone cord. Lucille said concerning the motive of the crime: "She taught us the game; then she kept the money we made. But we didn't really mean to kill her. We wanted to get back our money."

The two girls, both in their teens, admitted they enlisted the aid of two boys, William Lydon, 16, and Tony Valanis, Anna's 19-year-old brother, to enter Mrs. Gaensslen's apartment and steal the money they knew was there. "Mrs. Gaensslen showed us how to make money," Lucille said through tears. "She introduced us to lots of men. We kept our promises, but we never got a penny. She kept all the money herself. And so we decided to get it anyway."

The boys, when arrested, readily confessed their part in the murder, but insisted they acted on orders of the two girls.

PEDESTRIANS TOLD HOW TO USE ROADS

Columbus, Sept. 2.—L. A. Boulay, director of highways, urged that pedestrians forced to use highways should always walk on the left side of the road, and thus face the approaching traffic. Boulay called attention to the fatal accidents that have occurred where pedestrians walked with their back to the line of traffic. Autoists "are not always depended upon to use best judgment in any emergency," he said, and also pointed out that sometimes there are conditions that prevent an auto driver from turning out around a pedestrian when, at the last moment, a machine is discovered from the other direction. "The danger is still greater at night because few drivers expect to see a foot traveler and his lights may not throw sufficient light for him to quickly discover the walker," the director said.

PRINCE MAKES MYSTERY CALL AND GETS LOST

Wales Returns to Burden
Estate at 6 a. m.
Tuesday

Failed to Attend Dinner to Which He Was Invited Monday

Syossett, L. I., Sept. 2.—Edward, Great Britain's jazz-loving prince, dashed off right at the home of Devereaux Milburn, well-known polo player at Wheatley Hills, and returned to the James A. Burden estate where he is living on Long Island, at six o'clock this morning, tired but serenely happy.

Eagle-eyed newspapermen were mystified early today when they discovered that the prince had returned to the Burden home at 6 o'clock and numerous rumors of where and how he had spent the night were broadcast, but no one knew just where he had been until members of his party, in explaining why he was sleeping so late, revealed that he fox-trotted until the wee small hours.

About fifteen members of the fashionable younger set attended the dance. Who the debs and sub-debs were who danced with "Prince Charming" is not known.

Syossett, Long Island, Sept. 2.—The Prince of Wales provided newspaper reporters with a mystery today when he returned to the James A. Burden estate here at six o'clock this morning. The reporters had no record of where the prince spent the night, nor how, and early today there was no one who could tell them.

The prince was to have attended a dinner last evening at the home of Devereaux Milburns, but he was not present. He left in time for the dinner in an automobile, accompanied by a chauffeur and a Scotland Yard detective.

Nothing further was heard from the prince until shortly before six o'clock this morning when he telephoned from a farm house near here asking directions to reach the Burden home.

No special plans had been arranged for the prince today. It was expected he would spend a quiet morning. He had an especially trying day yesterday, having played polo and in the afternoon having been jostled by the huge crowd at the races in Belmont Park. It was said he might engage in a scratch polo game at the Phipps estate in Westbury late this afternoon.

JOE BOYER, RACING DRIVER, DIES AFTER INJURIES AT TRACK

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 2.—Joe Boyer, wealthy racing driver of Detroit, died in a hospital here early today from injuries received yesterday afternoon in the 250-mile race at Altoona speedway.

Boyer died after a game fight for life. Both of his legs were broken and crushed and he suffered internal injuries when his Duesenberg ripped through the guard rail on the 191st lap of a speed of more than 120 miles an hour and dangled on the edge of the huge bowl fifty feet in the air.

The other racers were stopped while the injured man was extricated from the wreck. At the time of the accident Boyer was trying to close the gap between himself and Jimmy Murphy, winner of the race. Tommy Milton was awarded second place and Fred Comer third.

RAIN BRINGS RELIEF

Columbus, O., Sept. 2.—Rain and cool breezes today marked the end of a six weeks' drought here. Weather bureau officials predicted lower temperature and unsettled weather for today.

FIGHTING BETWEEN RIVAL CHINESE GROUPS RESUMED

Communication Cut Off By Factional Forces—Two French Cruisers Sent to Shanghai To Protect French Interests.

Shanghai, Sept. 2.—Fighting between Chinese factions was reported to have broken out at Nanking today. It is unconfirmed but there are known to be heavy troop concentrations in that region.

According to American consular reports ten miles of telegraph lines have been torn down in the vicinity of Nanking.

General Lu Yung Hui's forces have cut the Shanghai-Nanking railroad fifteen miles from Shanghai, stopping all rail communication from Shanghai with Peking.

General Lu, through his subordinate, General Ho Feng Lin, who is in command at Shanghai, has had troops in the railroad zone near Quinsan for some time so that actual cutting of the railway was easy.

Shanghai, China's greatest city and chief port, now has communication only by boat to Tien Tsin.

Paris, Sept. 2.—Two French cruisers, the Colmar and Jules Ferry, were ordered today by the ministry of marine to proceed at once to Shanghai from Saigon.

The French charge d'affaires at Peking had advised strengthening the French naval squadron at Shanghai in view of the seriousness of the situation there.

Despite warnings, Chinese troops have pushed their advanced position close to Shanghai since Sunday.

OUTLINES OF MERGER OF BIG RAIL INTERESTS ARE BEING MAILED OUT

Cleveland, O., Sept. 2.—Official outline of the proposed merger of the Nickel Plate, Pere Marquette, Chesapeake and Ohio, Erie and Hooking Valley railroads into the greater Nickel Plate system, and terms upon which the outstanding stock of these companies will be exchanged for the new stock to be issued were in the mails today from the offices of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen here.

The terms follow closely the semi-official announcement made by bankers in New York some time ago, and provide for exchanges of stock in the companies to be absorbed upon the following basis:

	New Company
Chesapeake and Ohio	Pfd. Com.
For 100 shares first pfd.	115
For 100 shares sec. pfd.	115
For 100 shares cum-pfd.	115
For 100 shares common	55
Hooking Valley
For 100 shares	50
Erie
For 100 shares pfd.	50
For 100 shares sec. pfd.	50
For 100 shares common	40
Pere Marquette
For 100 shares prior preference	100
For 100 shares pfd.	90
For 100 shares common	85

The Nickel Plate railroad, it was revealed for the first time, is now the owner of 155,000 shares of Chesapeake and Ohio and 120,000 shares of Pere Marquette. Under the official terms preferred stock in the new corporation will have a par value of $155,032,258. It will be cumulative and pay six per cent per annum. The common stock issue will total $189,773,061, and it was expected that dividends on this would begin at six per cent.

Included within the merger are more than 9,000 miles of main line tracks, and the new Nickel Plate will provide transportation lines from New York and Norfolk, Va., on the Atlantic Ocean and extending westward as far as St. Louis and Bayview, Michigan. The road will traverse ten states, with a branch reaching out into Ontario, Canada.

Provided the interstate commerce commission gives its approval to the merger, the new company will take over and begin operation of the entire system January 11, 1925.

COOLIDGE OPPOSES FOREIGN IDEAS IN LABOR DAY ADDRESS

Would Keep America
American He Declares
In Speech

Washington, Sept. 2.—Three candidates selected Labor day for the real beginning of the presidential campaign.

President Coolidge addressed a delegation of friendly labor leaders at the white house at noon and in the afternoon John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate, spoke at a labor picnic at Wheeling, W. Va. Robert M. La Follette, independent candidate, made a radio talk to labor from Washington.

President Coolidge in his address to labor leaders said:

"American wage earners are living better than at any other time in our history. If anything is to be done by the government for the people who toil for the cause of labor, which is the sum of all other causes, it would be by continuing its efforts to provide healthful surroundings, education, reasonable conditions of employment, fair wages for fair work, stable business prosperity and the encouragement of religious worship."

"We do not need to import any foreign economic ideas or any foreign government. We had better stick to the American brand of government, the American brand of equality and the American brand of wages. America had better stay American."

"We have outlawed all artificial privilege. We have had our revolution and reforms. I do not favor a corporation government, a bank government, a farm government or a labor government. I am for a common-sense government by all the people, according to the American policy and under the American constitution."

The president asserted that the right of the wage earners to organize, bargain collectively and negotiate through its own agents had been determined.

Referring obviously to the railroad labor board, he said that "we have been making an interesting experiment in relation to railroad labor," and expressed the opinion that "it could probably be modified, through mutual agreement, to the benefit of all concerned."

In private employment, he continued, the right to strike goes along with the right to organize. Likewise, he said, the principles of voluntary arbitration is recognized, "but compulsory arbitration, to my mind, has to be reconciled with the right of individual freedom."

Restriction of immigration and enactment of tariff laws are necessary to preserve American standards for wage earners, the president added, declaring that the present administration had sponsored such legislation. Government legislation, he said, also is necessary for the establishment of peaceful conditions which will permit of protection at a minimum cost, but by an "adequate army and navy."

Instead of permitting the period of deflation which followed the war to be used "to secure a reduction in wages and the dissolution of labor organizations," he said, the administration adopted a policy of "healthfulness to business, industry and labor." "The federal reserve system," he related, "has constantly reduced discount rates, business has revived and the millions who were without employment have found plenty of work at increasing wages."

MURDERED MAN IS FOUND ON TRACKS AFTER BEING SHOT

Name on Knife Only Mark
Of Identification On Body.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 2.—His face battered, a bullet wound through his left lung just above the heart, the body of a well-dressed man, about 40 years of age, was found today on the New York Central track. Police believe he had been murdered and the body carried to the railroad in hope of hiding the crime.

The only mark of identification found was a knife in one of his pockets bearing the name "Andrew Finn." A search of the city directory reveals no such name.

Discovery of a valuable gold watch and $4.66 in his pockets led police to believe that robbery was not the motive of the crime.

The body was found by a watchman, who believed that an intoxicated man had fallen asleep on the railroad tracks. The remains were taken to a hospital where an examination disclosed the bullet wound, and also that his jaw had been broken.

LAFOLLETTE FLAYS MONOPOLY IN TALK

Washington, Sept. 2.—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, in a Labor day message, appealed to the voters of the nation to support his independent candidacy for president.

He attacked the Republican and Democratic parties, which, he declared, offer nothing to remedy "the evils which have arisen under their respective administrations and as a result of their policies." He said he had entered the campaign as a candidate to "convict the monopoly system which," he contended, is "protected by certain laws and by the failure to enforce others, and whose power is so great that both of the old parties have become its abject slaves."

Senator La Follette pledged himself, if elected, to work for the repeal of the transportation act of 1920, behind which, he charged, the interstate commerce commission "has taken refuge in its refusal to reduce the present exorbitant railroad rates."

"LITTLE SHEPHERD OF KINGDOM COME" HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Ten Xenia children will be given an opportunity to see the dramatic production, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," adapted from John Fox Jr.'s famous story, which plays at the Opera House next Tuesday, through an essay contest to be conducted.

The first ten children submitting the best essays on why they would like to see the play, will be given free tickets to the performance. Essays should be mailed to the Theatrical Editor, Gazette and Republican, Xenia, before next Monday. Names of winners will be posted in the lobby of the theater on the day of the performance at which time they will be given their tickets.

The play appearing here is a dramatization by Sidney Toler and features a good cast. Margaret Selkirk plays the part of Melissa, the mountain girl and Walter Poulter plays old Squire Middleton, a character that will rank with "Lightnin'." Jerry Leonard is in the title part of Chad, the Little Shepherd. The company plays here through arrangements with the Standard Amusement Company of this city and will open the local play season.

FIFTEENTH ANNUAL REUNION OF BEAVER SCHOOL IS STAGED

Steps to form a historical society in Beaver Creek Township were taken at the fifteenth annual reunion of former pupils of the old Beaver Creek graded school, held Monday.

The movement was started after Dr. W. A. Galloway of this city, principal speaker of the day, delivered an address in which he touched on history of the township. U. S. Senator S. D. Fess, Yellow Springs, who accompanied Dr. Galloway to the reunion, although not scheduled to speak, was prevailed upon to take the platform and he also talked along historical lines.

Other speakers at the session were: Mrs. Mary Holman Corwin, Cincinnati, and Mrs. Ernest Bradford, Beaver Creek Township. Mrs. Bradford was made chairman of a committee to consider plans for the historical society and she was also elected president of the reunion organization succeeding Horace Ankney. Other officers named at the meeting were: Newton Snider, Dayton, vice president; corresponding secretary, Miss Helen Ankney, Beaver Creek Township; recording secretary, Mrs. Andrew Thompson, Beaver Creek township, and treasurer Mrs. J. A. Piper, Xenia.

About 100 attended the reunion and the speaking program followed a dinner at noon.

PRaises Roads

Columbus, O., Sept. 2.—Asserting that Ohio is "developing one of the finest traffic systems in the country," State Highway Director Bouley today declared that the Buckeye state's road mileage now totals 84,730 miles. This aggregate mileage, he said, includes 10,465 miles of state highway, 5,608 miles of federal aid roads and 3,500 miles of main market roads.

BATHING GIRLS ON AUTOS WITHIN LAW

Xenia motorists who decorate their automobile windshield with bathing beauty stickers, need not worry about coming within the scope of the law on this score.

Neither Secretary of State Thad H. Brown nor Colonel Chalmers D. Wilson, auto license registrar, care what automobile owners paste on windshields or windows so long as it does not interfere with the vision of the driver and increase the danger of accidents.

In Massachusetts however, officials have objected to these decorations and have threatened revocation of licenses if the bathing girls are not removed. Many Xenians have used the decorations but need not fear from Ohio officials pursuing the same course as the Massachusetts authorities.

LOCAL WRESTLER IS AGAIN MAT WINNER

Tom Pappas, a local mat artist, topped over another aspiring wrestler Saturday night at the Nat Reiss shows.

Tom wrestles at about 160 pounds but in spite of this fact he insisted upon going out of his class Saturday evening to down the 190 pound George Peterson, "the terrible Swede" in nineteen minutes of mat work.

Tom, whose mat efforts are sponsored by George Spencer, of this city, downed his opponent with one his favorite holds, the toe hold, and at no time during the match was in danger of being thrown by his giant adversary.

All of Tom's matches during the stay of the "traveling amusement park" were finished matches and the local Greek wrestler came out on top in every one.

When the new Eagles gymnasium has been completed several wrestling matches will be held and it is thought that Pappas will be signed for some of the entertainments.

COOLER WEATHER GREET'S XENIANS

Once again refreshing rain dodged Xenia in its sweep over this section of the country Monday evening leaving this section still parched but welcoming relief from the extreme heat.

Promised rains for this section visited cities all around Xenia, and even fell within a few miles east of this city, but only a few drops fell in Xenia while the storm was in progress. Early Tuesday morning a little more rain fell, but hardly sufficient to dampen the streets.

The rain in other places however, brought cooler weather to Xenia on the wings of a northwest breeze, that caused a considerable drop in the temperature between Monday evening and Tuesday morning.

Dairymen Meet.

Bucyrus, O., Sept. 2.—Judge William Klinger of Lima, president of the Lima Creamery association, and E. D. Wade of the dairy department of the Ohio Farm bureau, were the principal speakers at the County Dairy association picnic held near this city today.

MODISH MITZI—The Goofer's Rival Is Plaid!

By Jay V. Jay

The Goofer considers himself a very fortunate man, having been able to secure Mitzi for luncheon, alone. Yet his best efforts fail to catch her attention. He has commented on her soft felt hat with its rosettes. It's purple, the new fall shade of purple too.

This is what Mitzi has been looking at; the lady near by is taking off the coat to her suit. It's one of the new three-quarter length coats and the lining is the same plaid as the dress. It's a wide plaid. Can you blame Mitzi for not looking the Goofer's way when such startling things are happening in other directions.

And Polly, the pretty child, is another distraction. She saunders past Mitzi in a plaid woolen dress. There's a hat to match it, too. To save it from being too plaidy, there is a collar, cuffs and band around the waist of plain material.

The Goofer feels that perhaps there is still a chance. There isn't though. We feel sorry for him, but where fashion is concerned there you may find Mitzi's heart. The plaid coats are more evidence of a coming fashion. "They are getting larger and better every day," is Mitzi's comment—plaids she means, of course.

DAWES REPARATION MISSION AN INSPIRATION OF HARDING

The choice of General Dawes, who has just seen the plan which bears his name accepted at the London conference and who has just told a waiting nation that he is grateful to it for the opportunity to run for Vice President, to settle the reparation problem was an inspiration. Europe had asked that some one be sent from this country to the conference on reparations. The question before President Harding was to send some one who would satisfy Europe's desire to feel that we were in earnest and yet who would not commit the United States officially. Many lesser persons called unofficial observers had gone over, carrying with themselves bales of advice, a commodity in which at all times, in all seasons and under the laws of all nations, there is free trade; but Europe would have none of them. Like all self-respecting people, it did not care to be observed, and the fact that this was done unofficially did not mitigate the offense.

What was to be done? Some one must be sent who was not unofficial, for Europe would not stand that, and who was not official, for America would not stand that. An inspiration, as I have said before, came to Mr. Harding. I think it came to him on the Mayflower. Three times the world has been saved on this historic ship; the first time, when England was saved from our New England ancestors, in gratitude for which annually in London a Pilgrim's Dinner is given; the second time, when the Orient was saved from everything except the Japanese earthquake, because the idea of the Washington Conference occurred on board of her, and the third time, when the Dawes inspiration occurred to him on board of her again, standing just ten feet forward of the poop. The spot should be marked as historic.—E. W. Gilbert.

AVERAGE GOODNESS

Among the sayings of Lincoln that endeared him to his fellow human beings was his declaration that the Lord must love the common people, since he made so many of them. It is a worthy ambition that leads one to aspire to be a common person. We throw about the word "common" in a reproachful sense when it may mean an honorable distinction. For instance, we beseech others to use their common sense, knowing that such sense is a precious thing and—in some localities—a rarity.

Dr. Eliot once wrote a beautiful study of two "common" lives, calling it first "The Forgotten Millions" and then by the inferior title of "John and Martha Gilley." They were a long-wedded, faithful pair he met in his sojourns summer after summer on the Maine coast. He told of their pioneer hardships, their family cares, their distributive goodness to the neighbors, their vision of their duty and their moral earnestness, but there was no hint of preaching in the tale. Rather he was concerned to point out their economic self-reliance and their character, rock-ribbed like the sea-torn coast, where the father tended his lighthouse for a pittance from the Government.

At the close of the article he gave thanks for their steadfast undecorative but civilizing example, expressing his belief that it is for unnumbered good and quiet lives like theirs that God made and upholds this earth.

DEFENSE DAY

President Coolidge, who certainly does not impress one as a militarist, has endorsed a Defense Day in a public statement and accepted responsibility for it. Some of our good pastors however, still seem to regard the contemplated event as a device of Satan. They appear to consider it a vainglorious exhibition of our potential fighting power, though the President says it is not that at all, and especially to fear that it will place America in a bad light abroad, as if she were going about with a chip on her shoulder, just waiting for someone to knock it off.

We really think our good pacifists are unnecessarily alarmed. We do not believe that this one day's effort to give our small army a practical idea of its first duty in case of war will foster the military spirit here or frighten and antagonize Europe. There is very little military spirit here among the populace, to foster and if we should hear that Great Britain or France or Japan planned a day's defense test like this, should we fear a war of aggression?

SHIVER BITES

Do you know the rich delights Of the food called "shiver bites?" Raisin bread with butter on it And an inch of jam upon it. Can you feel once more the hunger Of the days when you were younger And you hurried home from swimming, Now and then to get a trimming? But more often, oh my brother, To get something good from mother; Maybe cookies by the flat-iron? Oh, in those days eyes grew wistful Seeing food, and appetites fairly shouted, "shiver bites!"

"Shiver bites," we called them then. "Shiver bites!" and now we're men And our children stand and shiver Till the good things we deliver. Have they come with bright eyes dancing To the kitchen fairly prancing. Cold and hungry; and that chatter Sounds to me like teeth that chatter. But I know by all the laughter It is food those kids are after. "Shiver bites!" I hear them shouting Oh, there isn't any doubting That's real hunger that is shrieking For the nourishment it's seeking.

"Shiver bites!" Oh, was it wasted, That glad youth when cookies tasted Sweeter far than milk and honey In these days of making money. In those days when we were younger You and I knew real hunger, Knew the joys complete of swimming. But today our strength is dimming And we wonder, quite forgetting That our sun is slowly setting. If we had such appetites— Did we plead for "shiver bites?" Yes, time was they said of us We were just as ravenous.

Mrs. F. F.: "How can I clean the chandeliers in my home?"
Answer: You failed to state whether they were brass or gilt. However I will tell you how to clean both: For Brass Chandeliers: Sponge with hot vinegar and salt, rinse with soap suds, then polish with flannel or chamois moistened with a few drops of paraffin or sewing-machine oil. Alcohol will remove fly-specks, after which rinse and polish as just described. For Gilt Chandeliers: Rub with a cut lemon and follow by sponging with tepid suds of white soap containing baking soda in the proportion of one teaspoonful to a pint of water. A soft brush may be used to clean ornamental parts.

Mrs. S. I. K.: How can I get mildew stains out of white cotton, due to being sprinkled too long? I have a brown linen dress with white linen collar and binding on pockets and cuffs. In washing the dress faded and ran into the white. How can I remedy it?"
Answer: Mildew is a mould and like other moulds, may be killed by strong sunlight. The growth is stopped by drying it in strong sunshine after moistening it; but this is not always successful. A great deal depends upon how long the mildew mould has been gathering. Sometimes covering the sun shine directly on it will remove the spot. Javelle water will generally work when everything else fails. But if the stain is very old it may prove indelible. The brown stains on the white are dyed in; anything strong enough to bleach them out would also remove the color from the dress. The collar if ripped from the dress could be bleached with Javelle water.

Anxious: "Will you kindly tell me how to remove rust from a white porcelain sink?"
Answer: Heat the stain with hot water and then apply muriatic acid, with a medicine dropper. Pour boiling water over it, followed by strong ammonia-water. Be careful not to use the dropper for any other purpose. Muriatic acid is POISON.
Wendall: "Could you give me any idea of what clothes I should take

Today's Talks

DISCONTENT

Content is degeneration if anything is. If there be any divinity in this world at all it is found in discontent.
Discontent is growth.
Just as much as the wiggling of the bird in the nest and the twisting of the tiny roots in the soil are manifestations of growth.
Stand still, frown at every new thing, every new change, every radical thought or suggestion, and you will not only be considered a "back number" but you will ere long be a "dead one."
Progress and the betterment of this world can come about in no other way than through the divine agency of discontent.
It is the thing that makes youth triumphant and brave, and which hardens the muscles of the worker. But in our discontent our eyes must be fixed upon something better than that at which we work and strive.

We must more and more enter upon living as a business, not merely a vocation.
There is, however, the discontent of tearing down and the discontent of building up. Everything great in this world comes from those who strap this latter idealism to their breast.
Sweet content is all right in its place, but its place must be after the day's work is done and some useful task performed. It is not enough merely to do the thing at hand because it is at hand.

BOLD HOLDUPS GET $25,000 IN CASH IN CINCINNATI STORE

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 2.—In one of the boldest and cleverest daylight holdups in Cincinnati police records one man obtained $25,000 in cash and jewelry at 9 o'clock this morning when he entered the Sterling Jewelry store, near the busiest corner in Cincinnati.

If a window washer, on duty outside the door, had washed the front door transom, as usual, he might have seen and prevented the robbery. But he decided it wasn't dirty and degoted his attention to a show window where he could not see the interior of the store.

James More, manager of the store, was alone at the time. A man with out a coat came to the door, which was locked, and through the glass indicated that he wished to enter. More signalled for him to wait, but the man reached into his pocket for an envelope. Thinking he was a messenger, More admitted him. The man produced a pistol, covered More and backed him from case to case, making More hand out the contents of every tray that appeared to be exceptionally valuable in contents. Rings, brooches and other articles of jewelry were dumped into his pockets swiftly, then the robber ordered More to walk to the rear of the store while the stranger fled.

More, too excited to notice which way the robber fled, was unable to give only a meager description to the police.

Ohio Boy Slain.
Topeka, Kan., Sept. 2.—Harry Willis, 19, has confessed to police at Great Bend, Kan., that he hurled the unconscious body of Harold Watson of Circleville, O., before a speeding passenger train after the youths had quarreled and fought over $6 which Willis claims was stolen from him by Watson while they slept. The boys had been working for a threshing crew. Authorities said Willis confessed he served two terms in the Ohio reformatory for larceny.

Overcome by Black Damp.
New Lexington, O., Sept. 2.—Two boys had a narrow escape from death by black damp in an abandoned coal mine on the Clouse farm, near Junction City. Rescue parties found the boys, Eugene Groves and Eugene Clouse, unconscious in the inner recesses of the mine when they were reported missing from their homes. They had been in the mine all day, but will recover.

BOLD HOLDUPS GET $25,000 IN CASH IN CINCINNATI STORE
Cincinnati, O., Sept. 2.—In one of the boldest and cleverest daylight holdups in Cincinnati police records one man obtained $25,000 in cash and jewelry at 9 o'clock this morning when he entered the Sterling Jewelry store, near the busiest corner in Cincinnati.
If a window washer, on duty outside the door, had washed the front door transom, as usual, he might have seen and prevented the robbery. But he decided it wasn't dirty and degoted his attention to a show window where he could not see the interior of the store.
James More, manager of the store, was alone at the time. A man with out a coat came to the door, which was locked, and through the glass indicated that he wished to enter. More signalled for him to wait, but the man reached into his pocket for an envelope. Thinking he was a messenger, More admitted him. The man produced a pistol, covered More and backed him from case to case, making More hand out the contents of every tray that appeared to be exceptionally valuable in contents. Rings, brooches and other articles of jewelry were dumped into his pockets swiftly, then the robber ordered More to walk to the rear of the store while the stranger fled.
More, too excited to notice which way the robber fled, was unable to give only a meager description to the police.

Used Kellogg's Bran 2 months— constipation gone after suffering 3 years

Three years of suffering with constipation. What happiness was his when Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, restored his health. But read his letter.

"Dear Sirs: This is what I think of your krumbled bran. I would not be without it for anything in the world. For three years I used all kinds of medicines for constipation, and only got temporary relief. I was advised by a doctor to use Kellogg's Bran, and since I began using it I don't have to take pills or anything else. I have used it two months, and my constipation has left me. I feel better now than I have for three years."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kellogg's Bran brings results because it is ALL bran. You can't fight constipation with halfway meaasures—with brans which are only part bran. It takes ALL bran to be 100 per cent effective.

"Because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It acts naturally—just as nature acts. It stimulates the intestine and makes it function regularly. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will refund your money."

Kellogg's Bran has a delicious nut-like flavor. Quite different from ordinary, unpalatable brans. You will like it as a cereal, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the recipes given on every package.

Eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's Bran every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

RESERVES WIN AND LOSE IN TWO HOLIDAY GAMES MONDAY HERE

By L. J. WONES

The Xenia Reserves divided a double header Labor Day afternoon at Washington Park. The locals took the highly touted Zimmerman nine into camp by a 4 to 1 score while they lost to the Yellow Springs Athletics by a 6 to 3 score in the second tilt.

The first game was the best of the two and was played in a little over an hour and a half. Both teams played ball at times, the locals making five errors while the visitors made one less.

The pitching of Cyphers who tried the iron man stunt was a feature in the first game. Cy held the Zimmerman outfit to four hits while he fanned four and walked two.

Shoup, Zimmerman pitcher also gave a good brand of twirling and let the locals down with eight hits while he fanned eight and walked nobody.

The locals were first to score in the fourth on singles by Randall and Cox and an error by Bailey.

The visitors tied the score in the fifth after Bailey was safe on Randall's error and went to third when Greene pegged wild to second from where he scored on D. Cyphers' bunt.

The locals won the game in the eighth when the Zimmerman nine blew up. Milburn was safe on R. Jettison's error and made second in safety when Shoup tried to force him out on Cain's roller. E. Leashey bunted in front of plate and all hands were safe. Randall bounded to R. Johnson who hit Shoup in the head with the ball by accident, Milburn and Cain scoring. Cox then tied to Feltz's scoring. E. Leashey after the catch, D. Fuller and Cyphers also flied out.

The Zimmerman nine failed to score in the ninth and the game was over.

Randall was the hitting star for the winners with three hits in as many trips to the plate. E. Leashey played fine game at second base and handled eight chances well. P. Fuller also played well and made four nice catches in left field.

Second Game

The second game was not nearly as interesting as the first. The twirling of Bill Day was what caused the downfall of the local nine. Day twirled one of the best games of his career and let the Reserves down with four hits while he whiffed five and walked four.

His support was fair, his mates making but two wobbles behind him.

Cyphers, after winning the first game thought he could add the Yellow Springs nine to his rapidly growing list but failed. He pitched a fair game but was a bit weak in the pinches. His support weakened at critical stages and his team mates made five wobbles behind him.

The game started as though the locals were going to have a field meet with the Athletics. E. Leashey, first man up was passed while Randall doubled. Cox fanned and Fuller grounded out. Schwab doubled scoring. E. Leashey and Randall. Cyphers doubled scoring Schwab. P. Fuller drew a walk but Milburn grounded out ending the rally.

The Athletics got one run in the second when Durnbaugh tripled and D. Northup got a scratch triple the ball tapping a bad hop in right field the blow scored the former with Yellow Springs' first run.

Day then settled down and from the second inning on to the eighth he held the locals scoreless and hitless.

The Athletics then proceeded to win the game in the fourth on hits by Bowser and Brewer, Cox's error, E. Leashey's error and a walk let them score three runs. Not being satisfied with a one run lead the visitors added another in the fourth on Brewer and Day's singles and a passed ball. The Athletics got their last tally in the eighth after two men were down.

MERCHANTS ON LOSING END OF TILT WITH CUBS

The Xenia Merchants had their winning streak which had reached sixteen straight games, rudely shattered Labor Day afternoon at Dickerson Park and were forced to except the short end of a 9 to 4 score at the hands of the Shroyer Cubs of Dayton.

Misplays in the field, especially in the twinning, when the visitors tallied three runs, were mainly responsible for the defeat handed the Merchants, local hurler, to their liking and had run up a total of nine runs in the first four innings before the local hurler tightened up and held them scoreless for the remainder of the game.

Tiele and Clark, twirling for the Cubs, proved a puzzle and the run made by the Merchants were few and far between.

Jones had some trouble in getting his benders breaking right, and Rogers, first man up for the Cubs in the initial inning plastered one of his shoots over Porter's head for the circuit. Porter was laying well into the diamond at the time or the smash would have been an easy out.

Next Sunday the first of the three game series with the Xenia Reserves will take place at Washington Park. Manager Hickman of the Merchants, has a constellation of hurlers from which to pick for the Sunday contest. Wallace, formerly of the Cincinnati Ex-celsiors, will be on hand, as will Jones, local twirler and "Smookey" Johnson, the pitcher recently acquired from the Dayton White Sox.

The first game will be played at Washington Park, the second at Dickerson Park and the third game will take place on a neutral diamond.

The Labor Day line-up:

Dayton—Rodgers, 3b; Lewis, 2b; Jones, lf; Grimes, 1b; Franks, c; Tiele, p; Belien, rf; Simmons, ss; Harlowe, cf; Clark, p. Xenia—Porter, cf; Cunningham, lf; Warner, ss; Shoecraft, 1b; Long, 3b; Shoecraft, c; Houston, 2b; J. Jones, rf; A. Jones, p.

The score:

SILVER AGAIN WINS MONEY

Silver Pointer, the gray gelding owned by J. W. Faulkner of this city, and driven by Joe Hagler, local driver, walked away with the principal event on the racing card of the Montgomery County fair Labor Day, the 2:10 pace, winning in straight heats.

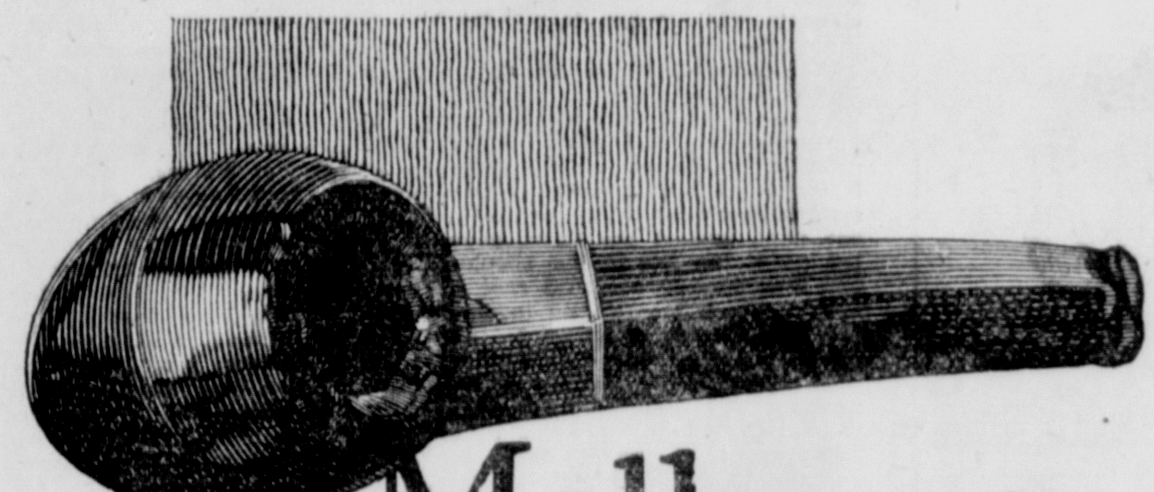

The gelding won each heat, easing up, and so clearly outclassed the small field of four starters that comparatively slow time was made. Time for each of the three heats was 2:13.4.

The 2:10 pace, picked as the feature event of the opening day's racing card, proved to be just a work out for the local flash who was so superior to the field that he appeared to be running a practice heat.

In coping the feature event of the racing card, Silver Pointer also carried away the $500 added money that went with the race.

The day was ideal for racing and the track was fast as lightning.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

MARY HAYWARD, a famous beauty, arrives at the country home of CAMILLA WAITE with two men, BRUCE GILLIAN and STEWART O'BRIEN.

Camilla warns Mary that she is in love with Bruce and that there is to be no poaching on her matrimonial preserves. Camilla realizes that Bruce is much interested in Mary, and plots with O'Brien to prevent his proposing to her. Camilla keeps Bruce from Mary's side at the dance that evening, but late that night Mary goes into the garden for a breath of air, and unexpectedly meets him. He tells her he loves her, asks her to elope with him at once. But O'Brien intervenes. The next afternoon Camilla announces her engagement to Bruce.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XII—A NEW SUITOR

THE most concealed man in the world could not have suspected Mary of being heartbroken that evening, and Bruce Gillian was far from being conceited. He watched her with pained bewilderment in his eyes all during dinner. And Camilla, noting that fact, mentally advanced the date for her wedding by a week. Just as well not to tempt fate! And it might be as well, too, to hint to Mary that it would not come amiss if she accepted the Atwoods' invitation to stay with them, beginning the following day; no need to have her right there in the house!

Mary had never been more fascinating, nor seemed more effortless about it. The second course found O'Brien hopelessly her slave; the end of the third marked the complete capitulation of the visiting earl.

"Well, I'm glad that a lot of men are coming in this evening," announced Vera Atwood, as they went out to the terrace when Camilla asked if everyone wouldn't rather have coffee and liquors on the terrace. "With so few men as competition, I'm really afraid that Jim may think the stray smiles he gets from Mary mean something!"

Camilla lifted troubled eyes to Gillian. "I sometimes wonder if Mary realizes that it isn't good form to flirt so," she murmured. "Of course, she's always done it; she just can't resist admiration. And she doesn't understand that any girl can have a crowd of men around her if she cares to—well, if she doesn't mind letting them—"

His quizzical smile made her cheeks flush, and she turned away. He glanced back over his shoulder to where Mary had paused an instant in the doorway. The golden light poured out around her in a soft, caressing flood. She had rested one hand against the lintel, above her head; the line of her shoulder and arm was so beautiful that he drew a sharp breath, and involuntarily took a step forward. She came down the shallow steps slowly then, almost seeming to float on the tide of mellow light, as if she would be carried straight into his arms. Her eyes looked straight down into his, and in that moment of honest questioning and honest answer Mary Hayward found heart's ease. If he had shouted from the rooftops he could not have told her more plainly that he loved her.

Yet a moment later he had turned away, just before she reached him, and was bending over Camilla as de-why you didn't come over to the other side. Now I'm glad that you didn't; I want to take you there for the first time as my wife."

His wife! Wife of Sir Nigel Clive Cavendish—Lady Mary Cavendish—oh, Bruce would think then that he had not hurt her! Her pride had been badly hurt; now for a moment the anger that had swept over her that afternoon surged up again. If she married Nigel she could show them all that she was no object of pity!

"You probably think I'm a fool," the man was saying. "But I assure you that I'm serious. You're the loveliest thing I've ever seen. This loveliest thing I thought you wonderful; tonight, when you came down that stairway, it seemed to me that the only thing in the world worth doing would be to take you in my arms!"

"If you weren't an Englishman I wouldn't believe you," Mary told him; her rich, deep laughter ran beneath her words, and to a stranger it sounded genuine. "But I'd never dare suspect you of just amusing yourself."

"Then—then you'll take me seriously?"

"I'll take your remarks seriously—" she paused, slipped away up the path. "Your remarks, but not you—not just yet, my dear!"

"His False Standard"—in True Story

Other Absorbing Stories from Life

Here are just a few of the unusual features in the October Issue of True Story Magazine

"Her Final Choice"—Nina, an orphan, hungered for love. So when Peter Hodge came into her life, she fell an easy prey to his seeming devotion. She little realized that in throwing herself into his arms, she was inviting tragedy.

"What Every Woman Hopes"—Living in the country, Madge thought no temptation of city life could ever lure her into wrong. But Madge did not know how easy and attractive each little downward step is made, and how fiercely she was to have to battle for her soul.

"The Network of Fate"—When Janet concealed from her husband that his friend, had made improper advances toward her—she believed her silence the only way to save her husband from ruin. How she had to literally claw her way out of hell as a result, is a most heart gripping narrative.

"You Belong to Me"—When Avery Holson

Magazine for October is a story of the sowing of wild oats—and the reaping of a crop of agony. If every man and woman could see the broken hearts and ruined hopes, the days and nights of remorse and tears that follow wrong-doing—no young man would trifle with a woman's love and no girl would give her heart to any man until she had made sure that his intentions were honorable.

Don't fail to read this thrilling lesson from life.

The Gage of Battle

In this country a mighty conflict is raging. Evil is battling to destroy all that is virtuous and good.

The weapons of Evil are deceit, treachery, cunning. It slinks in the shadows and attacks in the dark. Against such a foe, moralizing avails little. The fight calls for action—determined, fearless. True Story Magazine, as published by Bernarr Macfadden represents that kind of action.

"During those awful days of suspense both as to Evelyn's faith and mine, I passed through hell-fire of suffering. . . and I learned that I loved Evelyn, loved her as a man loves a woman, and in the end, I won her, and all natural, wholesome things."

—from "His False Standard" in True Story for October

True Story needs but one weapon—the sword of truth. If it can save others the tragedy of evil; if, it can show young people the perils and penalties of wrong—it will have gone far in its battle for Right.
